Subject: New module — third-party delivery companies (handover, collection, settlement and statements)

Orders that fall outside the areas we cover are handed to an outside delivery company. This module records that handover and the money that moves with it, so a delivery carried by somebody else is still a delivery we can account for. Each item is priced individually so that any of them may be accepted, deferred or declined without affecting the others.

Section A — The carrier and the handover

Recording the delivery companies themselves, the areas they cover, and the act of handing an order to one of them.

Section C — Reports and integrity

Section D — Delivery

One release of the office application. No new version of the driver application is required: an order handed to an outside company never reaches a driver's device.

Terms and conditions

- Prices are in US Dollars and exclude any third-party or platform fees (application store accounts, hosting, SMS or mapping charges), which are billed at cost if incurred.
- This quotation is valid for 30 days from the date above.
- Payment terms: 50% on acceptance, 50% on delivery.
- The delivery company account reports exactly these figures, each per currency: orders handed over, orders delivered, amounts collected by the company, amounts collected by our office, the company's fees, amounts settled in each direction, and the outstanding balance. Figures beyond this list are quoted separately.
- The fee for a run is entered on the order. A tariff table, in which each delivery company carries its own price list by area, is not included in this quotation and is estimated at USD 300 to 400 if it is required.
- Balances are held per currency and are never converted between currencies, matching how every other account in iDeliver III already works. A rate of exchange, if one is ever wanted, is a separate item.
- No new version of the driver application is required, so no rollout to drivers' devices is involved and none is charged for.
- Section E is optional and is not included in the total above. It can be accepted later at the same price without any rework of the sections delivered before it.

9. Defects in the delivered items are corrected free of charge for 30 days after delivery. New requirements raised after acceptance are quoted separately.
